Help take control of your vaginal health with RepHresh™ products.

Your vaginal health and the importance of pH

Vaginal health is something you have more control of than you think. Your vaginal health is impacted by pH balance, yeast and bacteria.

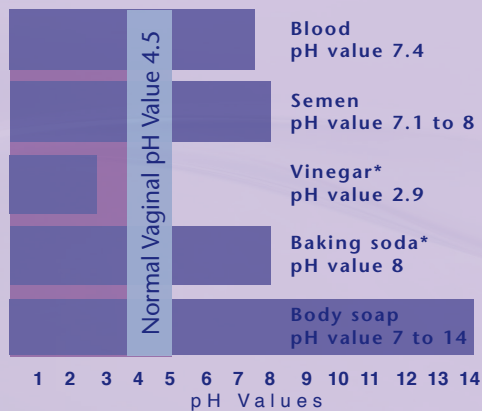

A normal vaginal pH of 3.5 to 4.5 is important for maintaining good vaginal health. At this optimum level, your vagina contains a balance of necessary microorganisms. This balance can be easily disturbed.

When vaginal flora is disturbed, problems like vaginal odor and discomfort are more likely to occur. When pH is elevated, odor-causing microorganisms can flourish. Studies show that vaginal issues often occur when vaginal pH is elevated. By maintaining a healthy vaginal pH, you can reduce your risk of vaginal issues.

pH can be elevated by many everyday occurrences such as:

- Menstruation
- Hormone Fluctuations
- Intercourse
- Scented Soaps

When pH is out of balance RepHresh™ Vaginal Gel helps get it back.
